

BROADWAY EXTENSION

PLANS PREPARED TO MAKE IT GLENDALE'S WESTERN GATEWAY

Motorists approaching Glendale on the San Fernando Road from the north often pass right by Broadway, thinking that this narrow, unpaved street surely can not be an entrance to the beautiful city of Glendale. So it is planned now to make Broadway a real western gateway worthy of the city it leads into. First, the design is to acquire the vacant lots at the southwest corner of Central Avenue and Broadway, and make the jog in the latter street at that point a double curve. Then at the crossing of Pacific Avenue a roadway 120 feet wide, paved with concrete, will be laid out to lead northwest in a gentle curve until the San Fernando Road is reached just below Millford. With a wide paved street, tree bordered and at night beautifully lighted, beckoning them as they approach from the northwest, motorists simply could not resist the temptation to turn into it, especially when the road signs informed them that Eagle Rock, Pasadena and Los Angeles could be reached by passing through the heart of Glendale. And in all probability many tourists from the East, out motoring simply on observation tours would be so charmed with Glendale's attractions that they would choose this city as a home rather than the big town further on.

This Broadway extension is only one of the many street improvements designed to make Glendale easy of access and inviting in its approaches to the passing motorists that our city trustees are planning to lay before the citizens of Glendale.

KINDERGARTEN BUILDINGS

J. J. Burke of South Maryland Avenue reports his expectation that the Central Avenue School kindergarten which he is building will be completed in time for use at the opening of the second semester in February, and that the Columbus Avenue building will be done about two weeks later.

He says in spite of advanced prices on material the demand for buildings is still keeping up. Many calls have been made upon him for small buildings for temporary shelter on the rear of lots.

BOY TRAPPERS

Robert and John Copeland of 518 West Colorado, boys of 13 and 11 years, are becoming expert trappers. About three weeks ago they caught a fox, which they still have, and since then they have secured in their home-made traps two large bobcats and two opossums. The wild cats were shot and killed in the traps and they were then skinned, as the pelts bring a good price. The opossums, which were very fat and quite young, were eaten by the family and found to be quite toothsome. These animals were all caught in the Los Angeles river bottoms, just west of the city.

PROF. INNUE SPEAKS

THE JAPANESE QUESTION FROM THE VIEWPOINT OF A JAPANESE SCHOLAR

The audience which gathered at High School Tuesday evening to hear Prof. Kiyo Sue Innue of the U. S. C. faculty on "Japanese Immigration and Americanization," was not large, but it was an interested, intelligent audience. The lecture was preceded by a few musical numbers by pupils of the Intermediate School, Esther Edmonds contributing saxophone solos, piano numbers, and a section of the girls' glee club giving a hunting song, a boating song and a lullaby. Miss Clara Midcalf, president of the Teachers' Club, which arranged the lecture course, announced the coming events in the course and introduced the speaker.

In beginning his lecture Prof. Innue spoke of the great success of the United States as a nation and of the place this country holds in world politics. He then referred to the success of Japan, to the rapidity with which that success had been achieved and the dominant place held by Japan in the East. Success, he argued, always focuses attention. Therefore, America and Japan, according to his logic, are much in the public eye and much talked about, and this has its psychological effect on both peoples. The Japanese declare they must have a big navy because the United States is just across the Pacific, and the United States in-

BIG REALTY DEAL

J. G. HUNTLEY AND W. E. EVANS PURCHASE FOOTHILL TRACT FOR SUBDIVISION

A real estate deal of more than ordinary importance has taken place during the past few days whereby John G. Huntley and Attorney W. E. Evans purchased of Mrs. Harriett M. Dow a tract of 23 1-2 acres on the north side of Kenneth Road lying just west of the holdings of Chas. H. Holl. This property occupies the highest point in this exclusive residential section and extends from Kenneth Road north and west to the foothills.

It is reported that the purchasers will forthwith subdivide the tract into homesteads ranging in size from one to two acres with suitable streets and roads.

This new subdivision will undoubtedly prove to be a popular one in residence sites along this part of Kenneth Road cannot be excelled in this section of the country because of the beautiful and varied view which it commands. The consideration is reported in the neighborhood of forty thousand dollars.

Mr. Huntley recently sold his home on Central Avenue and will soon begin the construction of a new residence on one of the lots in this new tract. The other owner, Mr. Evans, will reserve a lot on which he expects to ultimately erect his permanent home.

Their subdivision plans provide for about 25 lots varying in size from one-half acre to about one and one-half acres, with a boulevard leading from Kenneth Road to the hills.

Several prominent Glendale people have already expressed a desire to make selections.

DAYLIGHT BURGLARY

The home of James Bennett at 530 West Colorado was entered Monday afternoon while the family was absent, the house ransacked and valuables taken. Though there are houses close by on either side, the occupants of which were at home all that afternoon, no one saw the thieves enter, which they did through a back window. The dog was in the house to guard it, but they kept him quiet by feeding him the meat provided for the evening meal, which was in the cooler. Three gold watches and a bracelet were taken, the value of which was over $300. Some trifling articles, such as an antiquated pistol and a harmonica were taken, also, which led to the belief that boys were the guilty parties.

CHANDLER CARS COMING IN

New motor cars of all kinds are hard to get hold of and the arrival of a shipment is an event. The popular Chandlers are particularly hard to get and Bartlett & French, local distributors for the Chandler and the Cleveland Six are therefore jubilant because they have been able to pull the wires in such a way that they can make immediate delivery of a limited number of Chandler seven-passenger touring cars. The Chandler Despatch (4-passenger sport model) and the Chandler 4-passenger Chummy Roadster are even harder to get but they will be able to make a few deliveries by the middle of February. They are already receiving orders for these models and they say the shipment will not last long.

A very pleasant surprise was enjoyed by the hostess and her guests when they found their place cards to be five-dollar bills, presented to them by Mrs. Crouse.

The table was beautifully decorated with violets and covers were laid for Mrs. Crouse, Mrs. Shulze, Mr. Bailey and Mrs. Anna Bailey, Miss Florence Bailey, Mrs. Easton, Mr. and Mrs. Becktel, Miss Kathryn Bailey, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wagon and hostess.

MISSIONARY DAY

PAGEANT AT GLENDALE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH UNIQUE PRESENTATION

Tuesday was Missionary Day at the Glendale Presbyterian church. About forty ladies gathered at ten o'clock in the forenoon and made two comforts. A hot lunch was served at noon and in the afternoon, following a short business session, there was a devotion exercise led by Mrs. Huskins, followed by a program of which Mrs. Weien of Eagle Rock had charge. It included an address by Mrs. Montgomery on the Mormons and a talk by Mrs. Weien on China. About fifty ladies were present in the afternoon.

In the evening a larger audience came out to view the missionary pageant entitled "America Serves" which was in charge of Mrs. A. B. Drake, assisted by Mrs. Baker and Mrs. M. P. Harrison, and in which members of the Philathea Class of girls and others of the church took part to the number of about forty-three.

Mrs. J. McMillan was the pianiste of the pageant which opened with a procession in which Dorothy Wilde in appropriate costume represented Christianity and led one line while Miss Phillis Baker, representing America, led the other line. Miss Mary Wilkins personated a nurse in a Christian mission hospital, and Miss Inez Harrison by way of contrast showed a native Chinese nurse striving to cast out suffering by red hot needles, weird concoctions, etc. The aim was to represent the Chinese in this country and the Italians in this country. Italian needs were represented graphically in four scenes, then the needs of the Chinese were similarly set forth particularly in refugee and medical work. The last scene represented America's help in the mission hospitals. Between the Italian and the Chinese scenes Miss Olive Taylor sang in solo a missionary jubilee hymn.

Italians were represented by Geo. Lemon, Henry Lawrence, Dr. Gilker, Henry Resse, Mrs. Willard Boyd, and Mrs. G. W. Boyd and their children who made a great hit, particularly the baby. L. Richardson, Jerry Richardson and little Barbara King represented Americans who came to the relief of the Italians.

The Chinese were represented by Willard Boyd, Mr. Hoffman, Mr. Retts, Paul Edmonds, Miss Grant, Miss Inez Harrison, Misses Mildred Thompson, Margaret Wilson and Margery Smith and the children: John Filer, Wilbur Lemon, Viola McGrew, Eleanor Minness, Helen Gilker, Lawrence Boyd and others.

DEATH OF DANIEL L. DAWSON

Daniel L. Dawson, the seven-year-old son of Mrs. Harriett Dawson, died of double pneumonia at the home of his mother at 159 South Olive street, Burbank, Monday, January 19th, 1920. Funeral services will be held at the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn Memorial Park Thursday, January 22, at 2 p. m., the L. G. Scovern Company having charge.

PASSING OF G. A. R. VETERAN

Death claimed another from the dwindling ranks of veterans of the Civil War when John F. Woodward passed away at the age of 71 years this morning, January 21, 1920, on the Phillips Ranch on Aliso Street, Burbank. A widow and many relatives are left to mourn his going. His civil war service was first rendered under Colonel La Grange in Company K, Thompson's Cavalry. Afterwards he was an orderly for General Wilson. While under Colonel La Grange he was wounded in the leg and had his horse shot from under him. In Los Angeles he had a large circle of acquaintances, as for years he conducted the U. S. Hotel there. The remains are now in charge of the L. G. Scovern Company and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

LUNCHEON AND THEATRE PARTY

K. Daniels, Lester Jones, J. McFadden, and Warren Roberts.

LIKE NEW HOME

MR. AND MRS. HUNTER PREPARING TO MOVE INTO HOUSE RECENTLY BOUGHT

John P. Hunter and wife are overseeing the final touches to their beautiful new home at 401 North Kenwood and expect to be settled in a few days. They bought it two weeks ago of Contractor Pigg and have had several alterations made in the plans to suit their individual taste. Two rooms were thrown into one, a door and window added and inside French doors built in to separate living room and sun room. Mr. Hunter spent six months in looking for a permanent location after coming to California, consulting with friends, and getting their divergent views. He finally took the matter into his own hands and very quickly selected Glendale. He and his wife are delighted with the city and their home. Her brother is a near neighbor and a boyhood friend who later was associated with him in work for a big packing concern, also lives in Glendale.

Mrs. Hunter came from Melbourne, Australia. She has not been back there for several years, but hears from her people regularly. A recent letter quoted the price of mutton legs in Melbourne at 10 cents a pound and beef is proportionately low. Mr. Hunter, who was with a Chicago packing company for 31 years, and still keeps in touch with the business, says he has positive information that heavy shipments of mutton and beef to this country from Australia will soon be a regular business and he looks for a lowering of prices on this account.

DEATH OF MRS. GEORGIA M. GREEN

Mrs. Georgia M. Green, who has been an invalid for a number of years, at an early hour this morning, January 21, 1920, died at her residence, 206 Fairview Avenue, Glendale.

The funeral services will be held in the Holy Family Catholic church Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, with L. G. Scovern Co. in charge. Deceased had been a resident of Glendale for about 13 years, during the last three of which she had been an invalid. She was a woman of very beautiful character and greatly beloved by her many friends.

APPROVES VOLUNTEER POLICE

Father James O'Neill telephoned the office of the Glendale Evening News his indorsement of the suggestion made by Dr. N. Bray in Tuesday's paper that a band of volunteer police deputies in plain clothes be recruited from the citizenship of this city to assist the regular officers in the maintenance of law and order. The Father says that the church house has been robbed twice and that when thieves show so little respect for sacred things anything may be expected. He hopes the plan will be carried out.

EUROPE TWICE SAVED BY AMERICA'S CROPS

America helped to save Europe and to preserve civilization, not only during the war but after the armistice, by making available, through increased production and conservation, large supplies of foodstuffs. This assertion is made by David F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, in a tribute to the farmers of the United States in his annual report.

"But for this contribution," says the Secretary, "it is difficult to see how the allies could have waged the war to a victorious conclusion. Lacking such support and with their own producing capacity seriously crippled, the German people experienced partial famine conditions; their health and vitality were greatly impaired; and the collapse of their military power was due in no small measure to the shortage of food.

"The cessation of hostilities brought no immediate improvement in Europe. On the contrary, in some respects more adverse conditions developed. Revolution became the order of the day; the directing hand of government was removed; discipline was relaxed; the morale, particularly of the people of the Central Powers, was broken; idleness and unemployment prevailed; and in some sections anarchy reigned. It was obvious that Europe could not produce sufficient foods for herself. Her crops had been short for several years, and it was scarcely probable that those for 1919 would be greater than the crops of the last year of the war. Quite as unsatisfactory was the live-stock situation. In nine of the western nations the number of cattle had declined more than 7,000,000; sheep, 7,500,000; swine, 24,500,000; and dairy cows several millions, with a greater proportionate reduction in the volume of products.

"Food relief after the armistice was imperative not only for the peoples of the new small friendly nations but also of the enemy countries. It became the key to the whole situation and to the establishment of a real peace. Europe had to be fed if order was to be restored and if European civilization, and, therefore, that of all the world, including our own, was to be preserved. America had again to assist in saving Europe and herself by supplying food, and that in great abundance. It was estimated that Europe would need to import at least 20,000,000 tons of bread grains alone, and that of this quantity 11,000,000 must come from the United States. It was obvious also that she would call for large imports of meats and fats, and that for months, until shipping expanded again, most of these must be obtained from the United States. This burden America was able to assume because of the achievements of her farmers."

INABILITY TO SELL BOOZE ON UNITED STATES SHIPS NO EXCUSE FOR SELLING THE SHIPS

The press has stated that the United States Shipping Board will dispose of its great liners because it cannot compete with ships of other countries on which booze may be sold.

In the first place, it is very doubtful that the booze can be legally sold on any ship flying the American flag, whether it is owned by the United States government or by American citizens.

In the second place, it is absolute nonsense to say that the United States ships cannot compete with ships of foreign countries without selling booze. The majority of American citizens object to traveling and having their families travel on floating bar-rooms. If the United States were to run its great liners absolutely free from this nuisance, they would get nine-tenths of the American trade, and that means the cream of the passenger-carrying trade of the world.

This whole thing looks very suspicious. The smaller ships, which were owned by the United States, have been rapidly disposed of, but it was understood that the great liners were to be kept in the hands of the American people as represented by its government. Now this "fishy" story comes. Can it be an excuse for selling ships? If it is not merely an excuse, it is an astonishing case of absurd judgment.

We were told that prohibition would ruin business. It didn't. We were told it would ruin real estate interests. It didn't. We were told it would bring on a "no beer, no work" strike. It didn't. We are now told that it prevents the United States from developing a shipping business. It does nothing of the kind.

WHAT MAKES DEMOCRACY SAFE?

A Christian home, an open Bible, a free church—in a word the foundations of intelligence and morality laid deep by our Pilgrim and Puritan forefathers—have made democracy safe in America. But what about the other nations of the earth?

Nearly a billion people, almost two-thirds of the population of the globe, have never heard of Christ! That means that they stand entirely apart from the whole range of influences associated with Christianity; that they lack the sense of the value of personality and human rights which works so mightily as an incentive to progress.

One of the great men of China, who passed through this country on his way to Paris, said:

"You have taken away from us our idols and our temples and destroyed our faith in Buddhism and Confucianism. Responsibility rests on you to give us a positive substitute, which we must have now to avoid chaos."

Then there is Mexico. Four out of five people in Mexico cannot read the Bible. The very name of God is unknown to one-fifth of the population. And there is South America, made up of these republics near to us and most vitally related to us.

Bishop Oldham said:

"The intellectuals of South America have utterly turned away from all knowledge of and desire for companionship with God. He is not in their vocabulary. Search their ranks through and you will not find a single professor who owns allegiance to the idea of God."—S. Earl Taylor in November World Outlook.

CURING POWER OF THOUGHT

A New York physician is sending nervous and depressed patients to the public library instead of to the drug store. He is surprised that his treatment has aroused comment. He may well be, for what he is doing for others is merely what countless persons acquainted with the soothing or inspiring powers of good literature have long been doing for themselves. Surely there are few bodily ills of ordinary experience that cannot be relieved by a good book, while there remains capacity for understanding.

"Blue days come to all of us, and we must use our own minds to get away from them," says the physician. "Indeed I do believe in medicine, but I believe that some day it will not be needed. With proper guidance we can all be our own doctors." There are some who will agree with him, and others who will not go so far as to admit that medicine will some day be superfluous. But whatever the divergence of opinion, surely there will be unanimity that the mind can drive away the "blues"; and the blues are no small factor in physical ills. When the mind is depressed the body becomes out of tune, and if the body is first to reveal distress the condition is aggravated by a leaden spirit.

One needs not be a literateur to prescribe his mental sedatives and stimulants. If there were but one book in the home—and that the Bible—even a superficial knowledge of it would direct the downhearted of the restless to those expressions of uplift or of calm that will be eternal. He who has a library of many shelves may find a variety of colorings and tastes, but no medicinal spirituality that is not available to the most humble.—San Bernardino Sun.

MORE PRUSSIAN PROPAGANDA

Most of the post-war memoirs and other books written by German officers and statesmen are published with just one view in mind. That is the careful furthering of German post-war propaganda in this and other allied countries.

The editor of a well known German newspaper has expressed himself as astonished at the zest with which these writings have been received by American news distributors and at prices which the authors have been offered for their reminiscences. According to this man, who should know what he is talking about, these books, when not actually containing false statements, are so far from telling the whole truth that their value as evidence in war matters is nil.

Along with the truth which is told with such apparent clarity and sincerity is the truth withheld, which was the crux of the whole matter, and it would be impossible for the reader to form anything approaching a correct view of German policies, campaigns and other activities from these writings which he reads with such avidity. What he will gain from his reading is a pretty far idea of what Germany wants him to believe.

With German propaganda before and during the war still fresh in mind, it seems hardly possible that any American will be influenced favorably by anything which is written by a German of the class responsible for the war. But it is well that the warning should be issued, for Germany has never given up hope of finally influencing American opinion in her favor.

Let the reader read the books if he must, but having learned what Germany wants him to believe, let him remember the ways of the Prussian, and try if he can to find from other sources the things which are really true.

PROF. INNUE SPEAKS

dules in the same talk. "Of a little thing, a great question has been made," he declared.

To demonstrate that it is little he quoted statistics to the effect that the Japanese in this country represent one-tenth of one per cent; that there are 65,000 in the state of California out of a population of 3,500,000 people or less than two per cent. Japan, he declared, never had any intention of sending her emigrants to America without restriction, and that she did not send them in any numbers until they were invited when their labor was needed after the Chinese exclusion bill was passed; that when a protest was made in 1907, Japan voluntarily agreed not to send any more laborers to this country under what was termed "The gentlemen's agreement." He suggested that Japan, after being forced to open her doors by Perry in 1853, voluntarily closed them to shut in her own people in 1907. Said he: "The question today is not what are we going to do with the Japanese who may come, but what are we going to do with the Japanese already in this country?" His answer was that it is largely a question of Americanization and assimilation. He then asked, "What is Americanization and what are American ideals—are they the ideals of Washington and Lincoln?" In passing he expressed the opinion we would find it harder to Americanize the un-American Americans than the foreign population, and that the Americanization of the Japanese would require little change since in fundamentals—in grand ideals, the two peoples had the same foundation, the same aspirations for liberty, co-operation, freedom, loyalty.

"The assimilability of the Japanese will depend to a great extent on the kind of a welcome and the sympathy they receive at the hands of Americans," he declared, indicating that if the welcome and sympathy are withheld, "the solution of the question is likely to be unnatural and un-Christian."

"My studies do not enable me to determine whether the adult Japanese can be Americanized or not, but the Japanese children do become Americanized. The grind of the American public school is a great melting pot. There is a spiritual and a biological assimilation, too. A Japanese boy at the age of six, if brought up in this country, is one inch taller than his brother of the same age in Japan. This is because of climate, because of food, because he does not have to sit down on the floor, because California grows big things. There is even a change of the facial expression of a Japanese in one generation because in pronouncing English words he must open his mouth more than the Japanese words require, and his gaze is differently placed. In Japan he is taught to modestly keep his eyes lowered and not look above the necktie of the man to whom he speaks."

He spoke of the fund started in 1913 by Japanese in America to educate and Americanize their countrymen and said: "Will you help us and co-operate with us? The Japanese feel they understand the real Uncle Sam and that he is a big, young, kind hearted fellow though he has been misled now and then. They feel that when Uncle Sam understands the facts, he will do the right thing."

Speaker Wright of the California Assembly and E. O. Wickizer of the South Pasadena Record have formed a partnership in the real estate business at South Pasadena. We can't exactly say that the new firm is all Wright, because Wickizer is a big part of it.

THE BISBEE CASES

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., Jan. 21.—(United Press).—The Bisbee deportation kidnapping cases—the largest prosecution ever conducted in the criminal courts of the west and probably in the United States—came up in the superior court here today.

Three hundred defendants, all prominent Arizonans and many wealthy, were arraigned before Judge S. L. Hatte of Tucson, who was sitting in the place of Judge A. C. Lockwood of Cochise county, who has been disqualified on affidavits from the defense.

Most of the defendants already have had hearings at Douglas, where they attracted attention through the daily trips of the "Kidnapers Special" from Bisbee, where the majority of them live. The defendants were so numerous that a special train was chartered to carry them to court.

Trial of the kidnapping cases already has been set for February 2, before Judge Hatte who probably will sit at Tombstone.

No case in Arizona history has attracted the attention that the deportation cases have attracted. As a result exceeding difficulty in securing a jury is predicted. A jury list of 7500 names has been made up, and it is planned to call a large number in the first panel.

The present prosecution was started after the federal courts had quashed indictments against a number of those alleged to have been implicated, on the grounds that the proper remedy was with the state and not the federal courts. Federal Judge Morrow of San Francisco made the ruling.

Following the federal court decision a county election in Cochise county had the question of instituting the prosecutions as its issue. R. N. French was elected county attorney on a platform promising prosecutions and warrants immediately were issued.

The first arrests were made about six months ago.

The defendants include G. H. Dowell, manager of the Copper Queen mine; J. C. Greenway, manager of the Calumet and Arizona mine; practically all other officers of those two mines residing in Douglas and Bisbee; Captain Harry Wheeler, former sheriff of Cochise county; and scores of other prominent business men, bankers, merchants, professional men and others. The formal charge is kidnapping.

The Bisbee deportations occurred on the morning of July 12, 1917. The copper mines of the Warren and Bisbee districts had been tied up by a strike called during June. Copper production, then necessary for war purposes, was practically at a standstill. It was alleged the strike was called by the metal trades section of the I. W. W.

After trouble of a minor nature had occurred, a posse which included about 1200 members, started at daylight July 12 the roundup of strikers, I. W. W. and strike sympathizers.

The vigilantes worked in squads and routed the men to be deported from their lodgings or homes so that before noon nearly 2000 were herded together in the baseball park.

Then a few over 1000 were placed in box cars attached to a waiting train and were started for "somewhere."

At every town in Arizona posses were waiting with train orders directing the train to "move on." Because the train couldn't keep up its wanderings forever, the federal government took charge and placed the 1000 deported men in a detention camp at Columbus, New Mexico, where they were cared for for several weeks.

While those connected with the deportations still firmly maintained that they did a patriotic act and made possible the resumption of copper mining—vital to the war—at the same time they rid the community of alleged undesirable elements, there have been many counter charges hurled. Chief among these is the claim that only a small percentage of those deported actually were I. W. W.; that scores were liberty bond holders; many were property owners in Bisbee or other Arizona cities, and that the whole affair was a deprivation of American citizens of their rights.

In the trial now on its way to opening these charges will be threshed out.

THE MOSQUITOLESS TOWN

Almost everybody who reads magazines or newspapers knows by this time how malaria fever is spread, and how to prevent it. Seldom, however, is anything done in an organized way by infested communities. Individuals may screen their houses and take other simple precautions against the germ-carrying mosquitoes, but that is about all. Community warfare against the mosquito is not undertaken because it seems too much trouble, or is considered too expensive.

It is not necessarily expensive, and it may be comparatively little trouble in comparison with the benefits obtained. Dr. Wickliffe Rose, general director of the International Health Board, in the journal of the American Medical Association, tells of remarkable results obtained in a couple of Arkansas towns. One of them, a lumber town of 2000 population, particularly infested with malaria, was persuaded to do something about it. No elaborate drainage plan was undertaken, but everybody got busy and did what he could.

"Borrow pits and shallow ponds were filled or drained; streams were cleared of undergrowth when necessary to let the sunlight in; their margins and beds were cleared of vegetation and obstructions; and they were trained to a narrow channel, thus providing an unobstructed off-flow. Artificial containers were removed from premises; water-barrels on bridges were treated with niter cake. All remaining breeding places were regularly treated by removing vegetation, opening up shallow margins to give free access to small fish, and spraying once a week with road oil by means of automatic drips or a knapsack-sprayer. All operations were under the supervision of a trained lay inspector. Care was exercised to eliminate unnecessary effort and to secure, not the elimination of the last mosquito, but a reasonably high degree of control at a minimum cost."

The result was a reduction of malaria in one season of over 7 per cent. The work was kept up, and the mosquitoes are now almost exterminated and the community is almost free from disease.

RESULTS OF FEDERAL TRAINING AS DISABLED VETERANS EXPRESS IT

Champ Carter, Private, First Class, Sanitary Squadron, of Colorado, Texas, one of hundreds of disabled veterans who has had the benefit of retraining offered by the government, has just recently quit his training to take a position with the American Smelting & Refining Company in Pueblo, Colorado, at a big salary.

Carter was one of the boys who gave up his schooling in chemistry and enlisted to help whip the Germans. In France, while on duty at A. E. F. headquarters, Carter sustained an injury which, upon his arrival in this country, was classed as a seventy per cent disability. In spite of his weakened condition he immediately applied to the Federal Board for vocational education.

His former studies as a chemist and pharmacist give him the foundation for special training in chemistry in the plant of the American Smelting & Refining Company.

DEMANDS CONSTRUCTIVE SYSTEM

A financial disaster without precedent will result if Congress hands back the railroads to their owners without adopting some constructive plan for solving the railroad problem, Charles Whiting Baker, a consulting engineer, and editor of the Engineering News-Record, writes in the current issue of the publication.

Congress must establish the supremacy of Federal control of the railways over state control, or else economic barriers to interstate commerce will be raised which will imperil national prosperity and even national unity, he writes.

"Railway capital must have a fair return, but in order to secure this it must be relieved of risks from the demands of labor, the exercise of state or federal control, and the manipulation of financiers, whose use of their control of the railways for their personal benefit must be terminated."—New York World.

Chandler Strides into Full Leadership

If there has ever been any question as to Chandler leadership of the medium-priced fine car field, it is answered now. The great Chandler Six is sweeping its market. It displaces less efficient cars. It steps in to serve those who previously have chosen only high-priced cars. And it pleases everywhere.

From two thousand to three thousand discriminating Americans bought Chandler cars—open and closed—every month this Fall. And at no time has the demand been fully met. Thousands have waited months for their new Chandlers, and have felt repaid for waiting.

Nothing could more clearly show the regard in which America holds the Chandler Six, than the patience with which these thousands waited for weeks and months for their Chandlers. They waited because they knew what they were waiting for—because they knew it was worth waiting for.

The guest of honor is a cousin of Mrs. Duncan of Los Angeles, aunt of the hostess. The party was made up entirely of Los Angeles ladies who remained for a social afternoon. The railroads are indispensable to our whole economic life, and railway securities are at the very heart of most investments, large and small, public and private, by individuals and by institutions.
WOODROW WILSON

THE war could not have been won without railroads. Transport—by rail and sea—is an indispensable arm of national defence.

Carrying capacity, from the wheat fields and the mines and the steel mills to the front lines in France, was the measure of our power in war.

And it is the measure of our power in peace.

Industrial expansion—increasing national prosperity—greater world trade—are vitally dependent on railroad growth.

The limit to the productive power of this country is the limit set by railroad capacity to haul the products of our industry.

The amount of freight carried on American rails doubled from 1897 to 1905—since that year it has doubled again.

It will double still again.

To haul this rapidly growing traffic the country must have more railroads—more cars and engines—more tracks and terminals.

Sound national legislation, broad-visioned public regulation will encourage the expansion of railroads, without which the nation cannot grow.

TO COMPLETE CENSUS ENUMERATION

Wesley Huneft of 457 W. Windsor Road, who was one of the census enumerators whose district was in the southern part of the city and who completed his work Friday, is quite concerned because of the statements made by some residents of Glendale that they have not been included in the census. He therefore states that if all such persons will send their names to R. M. Jackson, the real estate operator, or telephone him at 466-W., some one will be sent to get the information, as it is the desire of all parties concerned that the enumeration of Glendale residents shall be full and complete.

LITERARY SECTION

Members of the Literary Section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club gathered Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Ayars of North Central Avenue, Mrs. Hayward acting as curator. The program, of which Poland was the main theme, proved intensely interesting. Mrs. Opal Greenwalt presented the geography and early history of Poland in an interesting talk, while the language, religion and customs of Poland were described by Mrs. H. C. Baker. The review of Galsworthy's "Saint's Progress" by Mrs. A. M. Williams was of unusual interest. Items on science, invention and current events by Mrs. G. H. Rowe completed the program except for the reading of a card of greeting and clever poem by the curator of the section, Mrs. Chas. H. Hutchinson, who is confined to her home by illness, but who is said to be responding so well to medical treatment that she hopes soon to be restored to health.

The balance of the afternoon was given to a discussion of the Colonial Tea, which the section purposes to give during the season as a benefit for the Club House Fund.

WEATHER FORECAST: Cloudy tonight and Thursday. No important change in temperatures.

SCOUT DIRECTORS

The treasurer reported that the Glendale Elks had made a donation of $50 to the Boy Scouts. This announcement brought forth applause from the directors.

A publicity committee was appointed by the chair comprising C. H. Toll, H. Nelson and R. L. McCourt.

The new constitution and by-laws were presented by Scoutmaster Kellogg and the same were referred to the executive committee for approval.

Francis Gilman was duly elected as one of the directors.

The directors of this organization are very enthusiastic and feel that now is the opportune time to start a drive for the benefit of the scout troops. It was announced that the anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America takes place soon and the week of this anniversary will be a very appropriate time to solicit funds for the good of the scouts.

UNJUSTLY CRITICIZED

Mr. St. Clair, the janitor of the High School, denies that he was at fault when the doors of the school were locked against the Community Sing last Thursday evening. He says he was not notified that the building would be wanted that evening, and he feels hurt to be unjustly criticized.

SHAKESPEARE SECTION

The Shakespeare Section met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chester Kling. It is now studying the "Taming of the Shrew," but a portion of the afternoon was devoted to rehearsals for the open meeting it is planning to give and to a discussion of plans for the future.

Advertise it, or advertise for it in the Evening News.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS LUNCHEON

Mrs. Walter Stamps of 204 West Lomita Avenue entertained Tuesday with a mid-day luncheon members of the class in the Baptist Sunday School to which she belongs. A yellow and white color scheme was carried out in the appointments of the table, which was centered with mary-golds. Covers were laid for Mrs. Dossie, the teacher of the class, for Mrs. Glen Eley, for Miss Patricia Eley, her daughter, Mrs. Eddings, Mrs. A. J. Maxwell and for the hostess. Following the dinner a social afternoon was enjoyed in which plans for the coming year were discussed.

EGG PRODUCTION INCREASING

With hens beginning to speed up on production the price of eggs is dropping almost daily, generally a cent at a time. The present wholesale price for select yard eggs is 55 cents. With a 50 per cent egg production poultry raisers claim a profit is in sight at that price or a little lower, even though feed is very high and still going up. February and March are generally the months of heaviest laying in California. Most of the poultry raisers who make a regular business of it are running their incubators at full capacity now and baby chicks are plentiful at an average price of 20 cents each.

The exaggerations are dominant it is nevertheless true that on the Western front in 1914 some ghastly things were done by the Germans. Human nature—British, Scotch and Irish—retaliated. The order "No prisoners," was subsequently modified. A rather peaceful looking British Tommy—a corporal—trailed in one morning with eleven prisoners. They'd halted some distance from a small shack occupied by officers, where prisoners were being taken for examination. One of the lieutenants idly watching the Tommy line up his men, saw him talking with a stolid German on the extreme right. In a most deliberate way the Tommy raised his gun and shot the man. The astonished lieutenant ordered the tender brought before him. Meanwhile two stretcher bearers went over to aid the German and hastily took off his coat. He was badly but not fatally wounded.

"What in heaven's name did you shoot that man for. He was as quiet as a baby," demanded the officer of the Tommy.

"Beg pardon, sir, but he ain't killed. And maybe it's too bad. He'd just told me, sir, as how he had a wife and five kids in Germany. I wanted to do a good turn for her."

FINANCIERS URGE BROAD COPY-RIGHT RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(United Press.)—Establishment of a system of laws whereby copyrights on trade marks will be recognized in all countries in North and South America, will be advocated here today at the second Pan-American Financial Conference.

At present copyrights of North American countries are not recognized in Latin American countries. According to an arrangement some time ago, it was agreed that when two-thirds of the Latin American countries had ratified establishment of such laws, all the other countries would accept it. At present five Latin American nations—Brazil, Uruguay, Paraguay, Ecuador and Bolivia—have ratified the convention. Two more are necessary to make ratification effective. Peru has indicated its willingness to ratify but Argentina has proved the stumbling block. It is hoped to induce its delegates here to bring pressure to secure Argentine's approval.

International co-operation in commerce and finance was urged in a speech by John Bassett Moore, vice-chairman of the International High Commission, who spoke on "The Work of the International High Commission."

The International High Commission is made up of delegates from all American Republics, including the United States and Mexico. It was organized in Buenos Aires in May, 1915, as a result of a trip there by William G. McAdoo, ex-secretary of the treasury. The finance ministers of all countries are members of the Commission.

The conference, which is being held to stimulate trade relations between North and South American countries, is being attended by the leading business men of all the countries represented. Means to restore Latin American exchanges to their normal levels are being taken up, as well as the matter of investing American capital in Latin American development.

FILM ACTIVITIES

Representatives of the Astra Film Studio on Verdugo Road report that a pilot from the Charlie Chaplin Airdrome came to their wash Saturday because the ground was so rough he could not get a running start. He hit a stump and badly damaged the plane but was not hurt himself. He had expected to have a part in one of the Ruth Roland serials. A new serial has just been started by her. Glendale, January 20th, 1920

We will say this for Glendale;—it isn't slow to recognize a good thing. Folks who know say that in the history of Glendale there's never been such a turnout for a store opening —and on every hand, expressions of satisfaction that Glendale now has the kind of market it has long needed.

It was indeed a splendid opening, and we are grateful. We want you to feel that this is your Acme Market—that you have a vital interest in its upkeep and its prosperity.

Considering that the refrigerating plant wasn't completed until the morning of the opening, things went off pretty well, didn't they—and wasn't the music splendid?—and what a display of meats, GOOD meats—at Los Angeles prices!

It was a splendid day—a wonderful turnout—and again, we thank you. —but—the Acme Market is here to stay—is here everyday, and it will require your everyday support;—worthy of it, too!

Nor could you find a better showing of dependable groceries, ANYWHERE, nor a more complete delicatessen;—and as for the fruit and vegetable stand—there's many a pretentious place in the heart of Los Angeles that will not compare with it.

BOLSHEVIKI SPRING OFFENSIVE

MILITARY EXPERTS PREDICT TERRIFIC DRIVE TO CRUSH POLAND AND OVER-RUN EUROPE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Military experts here predict that the Bolsheviks will start a terrific spring offensive designed to crush Poland and remove the barriers between Soviet Russia and the remainder of Europe. It is believed that simultaneously the Bolsheviks will start a major demonstration against India designed to prevent the British from sending troops from there to aid in stemming the tide in Europe.

The offensive probably will be accompanied by a propaganda campaign and an effort to create revolutions in other countries.

Army intelligence officers estimate that the Bolsheviks have 125,000 on the Polish front and also have a quarter of a million additional troops behind the lines drilling for use in the spring offensive.

Poland has 545,000 men, but most of them lack equipment.

THE COMMON BEGGAR

The professional beggar who sits beside the public way, or goes from house to house appealing for charity from all who pass should, as a rule, be regarded with suspicion rather than sympathy, and the alms he begs should be reserved for the deserving case, hard to find because it is too proud to let its needs be known.

An official in a western city has been doing a little investigating of professional beggars in his home town. His findings are both startling and amusing. The well-known beggar who sat wistfully playing the accordion is known among his associates as the "millionaire." He was formerly an instructor in the state school for the blind, but gave up his job and took to beggary because it paid better. His daily graft upon a generous public averages about $30, and he spends his winters at fashionable hotels in warm climates. The poorest and least skillful tapper of the public funds was held rather in contempt among his fellows because his methods were so crude they only netted him about $10 a day.

In many towns professional beggary is forbidden by statute. It should be so everywhere. A world which expects its blind and crippled soldiers to return to their places as self-respecting and self-supporting members of society should not permit the lazy and dishonest to take their toll unchecked. There is work for everybody, either in some proper institution or out of it. For those who actually can not work there is public provision of shelter and funds. Common beggary which steals from the deserving and robs the honest should have no toleration.

A factory for the manufacture of powdered buttermilk is contemplated for Sacramento.

ANXIOUS TO COMPLY

"What's the idea," said Mr. Dolan, "of standing around making speeches? The boss said we must speed up."

"My mistake," rejoined Mr. Rafferty. "I thought he said 'speak up!'"—San Francisco Chronicle.
